Cooking

1 Basics of Nutrition

1.1 1. Macronutrients — The Body's Primary Fuel and Building Blocks

Macronutrients are nutrients needed in large amounts and provide energy (calories):

Macronutrient	Main Functions	Calories per gram	Found In
Carbohydrates	Main source of energy	4 kcal	Grains, fruits, legumes, vegetables
Proteins	Builds and repairs tissue; enzymes, hormones	4 kcal	Meat, dairy, legumes, eggs, tofu
Fats	Energy storage, hormones, cell membranes	9 kcal	Oils, nuts, seeds, avocado, fish
Water	Hydration, transport, temperature regulation	0	All foods and fluids
Fiber (carb)	Digestive health, blood sugar regulation	0 (indigestible)	Whole grains, vegetables, legumes

Approximate daily recommendations (based on a 2000 kcal diet):

- Carbs: 45–65% of daily calories → ~225–325 g
- Protein: 10–35% → ~50–175 g (average need: ~0.8–1.2 g/kg body weight)
- Fat: 20–35% → ~44–78 g

1.2 2. Micronutrients — The Small Players with Big Roles

Micronutrients are nutrients needed in small amounts, but are essential for health, growth, and cellular function. They don't provide energy, but they enable your body to function.

Vitamins (organic compounds): Support immunity, energy metabolism, skin, vision, nerve function, blood health, and more.

Minerals (inorganic elements): Support bone structure, nerve transmission, fluid balance, oxygen transport, and enzyme activity.

Examples with daily needs and common sources:

Micronutrient	Daily Dose	Common Sources	Function
Vitamin A	700–900 µg	Carrots, liver, sweet potato	Vision, skin, immune system
Vitamin C	75–90 mg	Citrus, peppers, broccoli	Antioxidant, collagen synthesis
Vitamin D	15–20 µg (600–800 IU)	Sunlight, fatty fish, fortified milk	Bone health, calcium absorption
Vitamin B12	2.4 µg	Meat, fish, dairy, eggs	Nerve function, red blood cells
Iron	8–18 mg	Red meat, spinach, legumes	Oxygen transport
Calcium	1000–1200 mg	Dairy, tofu, leafy greens	Bones, muscle contraction
Magnesium	310–420 mg	Nuts, whole grains, leafy greens	Muscle and nerve function
Zinc	8–11 mg	Meat, legumes, seeds	Immune function, wound healing
Iodine	150 µg	Iodized salt, seafood, dairy	Thyroid hormone production

These values vary slightly depending on age, sex, and life stage.

1.3 3. Food Groups — How Nutrients Appear in Real Foods

Food groups are practical categories of whole foods that provide a variety of macro- and micronutrients.

Food Group	Main Nutrients Provided
Fruits	Carbohydrates, fiber, vitamin C, potassium
Vegetables	Fiber, vitamins A/K/C, magnesium, antioxidants
Grains	Carbohydrates, B-vitamins, fiber (whole grains)
Protein Foods	Protein, iron, B12, zinc, fats (animal or plant)

Food Group	Main Nutrients Provided
Dairy	Protein, calcium, vitamin D, B12
Fats & Oils	Fats (esp. unsaturated), vitamin E

A balanced diet combines all food groups, ensuring you get:

- All macronutrients for energy and structure
- All micronutrients for regulation and support

1.4 4. What a Healthy Diet Looks Like (In Practice)

- Half your plate = vegetables and fruits
 - One quarter = whole grains (rice, oats, bread)
 - One quarter = protein foods (legumes, meat, tofu, eggs)
 - A small amount of healthy fats (olive oil, nuts, seeds)
 - Plenty of water
 - Some dairy or dairy alternatives
 - Variety over time ensures full nutrient coverage

You're thinking exactly right — and yes, Option A (Chicken and Tomato Skillet with Rice) is a great replacement, both logistically and culinarily.

You're spot on that:

- The ingredients (chicken, onion, garlic, canned tomatoes, rice, olive oil, paprika or herbs) are already used in other meals in Shopping Block 1 and 2, so:
 - You won't need to buy anything new
 - You'll use up existing ingredients more efficiently
 - You avoid regenerating shopping lists, keeping everything in sync

This makes the substitution seamless and improves the overall balance of the meal plan.

Now here's your new Meal 6, formatted just like the others:

Meal 6 – Chicken and Tomato Skillet with Rice

A simple, rustic stovetop chicken dish with soft stewed tomatoes and garlic. Rich but light, and very beginner-friendly.

Ingredients (1–2 servings)

- 1 small chicken breast, cut into chunks or strips
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1 tbsp tomato paste (or ½ can diced tomatoes)
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- ½ tsp paprika or dried herbs (thyme, oregano)
- Salt and pepper
- Cooked rice for serving
- Optional: chili flakes or a splash of vinegar

Instructions

1. Heat oil in a pan over medium heat. Add the onion and sauté for 3–4 minutes until soft.
2. Add garlic and stir for another 30 seconds.
3. Add the chicken, season with salt, pepper, and paprika or herbs. Sauté for 5–7 minutes until lightly browned.
4. Stir in tomato paste (or canned tomatoes) and a splash of water if needed to make a light sauce.
5. Reduce heat and simmer for 5–10 minutes until chicken is cooked through and the sauce is slightly thickened.
6. Taste and adjust seasoning. Serve hot over rice.

Alternatively:

Chicken & Vegetable Stir-Fry with Rice

Overview: A quick, colorful and satisfying one-pan meal with tender chicken pieces, crisp sautéed vegetables, and fragrant soy-garlic sauce. Serve with freshly cooked or leftover rice.

Main Ingredients (1–2 servings):

- 150–200 g chicken breast or thigh, sliced thin
- 1 small bell pepper (any color), sliced
- 1 small zucchini or a handful of green beans, sliced
- 1 small carrot, julienned or thinly sliced
- 1 small onion or 2 spring onions, sliced
- 1 garlic clove, finely chopped
- 1 tsp grated fresh ginger (optional)
- 1–2 tsp soy sauce
- 1 tsp sesame oil or neutral oil
- Optional: chili flakes or a dash of vinegar for tang

Starch:

- ½–1 cup cooked rice (fresh or leftover)

Optional Toppings:

- Sesame seeds
- Extra spring onion greens
- A few drops of toasted sesame oil

Instructions:

1. Prep ingredients: Slice all vegetables and chicken thinly for quick cooking. Have rice ready.
2. Cook chicken: Heat oil in a large pan or wok over medium-high. Add chicken and sear until golden and just cooked through. Remove and set aside.
3. Sauté vegetables: Add a touch more oil if needed. Stir-fry onion and carrot for 1–2 minutes, then add bell pepper, zucchini (or green beans), garlic, and ginger. Stir-fry until crisp-tender.
4. Combine & season: Return chicken to the pan. Add soy sauce (and chili or vinegar if using). Toss well to coat.
5. Serve: Spoon the stir-fry over hot rice and sprinkle with toppings if desired.

Tips:

- You can use any mix of vegetables: cabbage, mushrooms, broccoli, or snap peas also work well.

- Stir-fry is flexible: double the veggies for a lighter version, or use tofu instead of chicken for a meatless night.

Meal 7 – Lentil Soup

A hearty, protein-rich soup made with red lentils, warm spices, and optionally a touch of lemon. Great for cold days and easy to batch.

Ingredients (1–2 servings)

- ¾ cup red lentils (rinsed)

- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1 small carrot, diced (optional)
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- ½ tsp ground cumin
- Salt and pepper
- 3–4 cups water or vegetable broth
- Optional: lemon juice for serving

Instructions

1. Heat oil in a pot over medium heat. Sauté onion and garlic for 2–3 minutes.
2. Add cumin and stir for 30 seconds to bloom the spice. Add carrot if using.
3. Add rinsed lentils and 3½ to 4 cups water or broth. Bring to a boil.
4. Reduce heat and simmer for 20–25 minutes, stirring occasionally, until lentils have broken down and soup has thickened.
5. Taste and adjust seasoning. Add lemon juice before serving if desired.
6. Optionally blend a portion of the soup for a smoother texture.

Meal 8 – Couscous Salad with Roasted Vegetables

A light yet satisfying warm salad with fluffy couscous, sweet roasted vegetables, and a lemony dressing.

- 2 tbsp olive oil
- Juice of ½ lemon
- Salt and pepper

2. Meanwhile, place couscous in a bowl with a pinch of salt. Pour over ½ cup boiling water. Cover and let sit for 5 minutes. Fluff with a fork.
3. Combine roasted vegetables with couscous.
4. Drizzle with remaining olive oil and lemon juice. Add chopped herbs or chili if desired. Serve warm or at room temperature.

A light yet satisfying warm salad with fluffy couscous, sweet pan-roasted vegetables, and a lemony dressing.

Ingredients (1–2 servings):

- ½ cup couscous
- 1 small zucchini, diced
- 1 bell pepper, diced
- ½ onion, sliced
- 2 tbsp olive oil

2. Pan-Roast the Vegetables:

- Heat 1 tbsp olive oil in a large frying pan or skillet over medium heat.
- Add the diced zucchini, bell pepper, and sliced onion. Sprinkle with a pinch of salt and pepper.
- Cook for about 10–15 minutes, stirring occasionally, until the vegetables are soft, slightly browned, and tender. You may need to reduce the heat slightly towards the end to avoid burning.
- If desired, you can add garlic and chili flakes towards the end of the cooking time, sautéing for an additional minute until fragrant.

3. Combine:

- Once the vegetables are ready, add them to the couscous.
- Drizzle the remaining 1 tbsp olive oil and lemon juice over the mixture. Stir to combine.
- If you like, add chopped herbs (parsley or mint) or extra chili flakes for additional flavor.

4. Serve:

- You can serve the dish warm or at room temperature. Enjoy!

This stovetop adaptation gives you the same flavors as roasted veggies but with a quicker, simpler method using your cooktops.

A simple, warm Indian-inspired dish with soft potatoes, sweet peas, and gentle spice. Can be served on its own or with flatbread, rice, or yogurt.

Ingredients (1–2 servings):

- 2 medium potatoes, peeled and diced
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup frozen green peas (or more to taste)
- 1 small onion, finely chopped
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1 tbsp cooking oil (sunflower or olive oil is fine)
- 1 tsp curry powder (or a blend of turmeric + cumin)
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp salt (adjust to taste)
- Optional: chili flakes or fresh chili
- Optional: a small knob of butter or squeeze of lemon at the end

Instructions

1. Prep the potatoes: Peel and dice the potatoes into small cubes (~1.5 cm). This helps them cook faster and blend nicely with the peas.
2. Start the base: Heat oil in a medium saucepan or deep frying pan over medium heat. Add chopped onion and cook for 3–4 minutes until soft and slightly golden. Add minced garlic and stir for 30 seconds until fragrant.
3. Add the spices: Sprinkle in curry powder (or turmeric + cumin). Stir into the onion/garlic base for 30–60 seconds — this blooms the spices and builds flavor.
4. Add potatoes and water: Add the diced potatoes and just enough water to almost cover them (about $\frac{3}{4}$ –1 cup). Add salt. Stir to coat everything in the spiced oil.

5. Simmer: Cover the pan with a lid and simmer gently for 10–15 minutes, stirring occasionally, until the potatoes are nearly tender. If the water is evaporating too fast, add a splash more.
6. Add the peas: Stir in the frozen peas. Continue simmering (uncovered) for another 5–7 minutes, until everything is soft and coated in a lightly thickened sauce.
7. Final touches: Taste and adjust salt. Add chili for heat, lemon for brightness, or a small spoon of butter for richness, depending on your mood.

Serving Ideas

- Eat it as-is with a spoon
- Pair with flatbread, toast, or plain rice
- Add a spoonful of plain yogurt for contrast

15. Chicken Rice Porridge (Congee Style)

A warm, comforting dish made by slowly simmering rice into a porridge texture, with tender chicken and ginger.

Ingredients (1–2 servings):

- ½ cup rice (uncooked)
- 4 cups water (or light chicken broth)
- 1 small chicken breast (raw)
- 1 thumb-sized piece fresh ginger, peeled and sliced
- ½ tsp salt
- 1 tsp soy sauce (optional)
- Spring onion or sesame oil (optional)

Instructions

1. Combine rice, water, and raw chicken in a pot. Add sliced ginger and salt. (Yes — the chicken goes in raw. It will gently cook in the porridge as it simmers.)
2. Bring to a boil, then lower heat and simmer uncovered or partly covered for 40–60 minutes, stirring occasionally.
3. After 20–30 minutes, remove the chicken breast. Let it cool slightly and shred it with a fork.
4. Return shredded chicken to the pot. Continue simmering until the rice has broken down into a thick, creamy consistency (like soft oatmeal). If it gets too thick, add more water a bit at a time.

5. Season with soy sauce or extra salt to taste. Garnish with chopped spring onion or a drizzle of sesame oil if desired.

Texture and Flavor Notes:

- It should be soft, almost soup-like, but still spoonable.
- The ginger adds fragrance and warmth.
- It's comforting, minimal, and forgiving — you can't really overcook it.

What is “Congee,” really?

Congee (or rice porridge) is a dish where rice is cooked in a large amount of water for a long time — it breaks down into a thick, porridge-like texture. It's not regular steamed rice with some toppings.

So the key technique is to simmer rice with extra water from the beginning and cook it well beyond the usual point, until the grains are very soft or partly dissolved.

16. Garlic Chicken with Potatoes & Greens

Ingredients (1–2 servings):

- 1 small chicken breast or thigh (cut into chunks or strips)
- 2 medium potatoes, peeled and diced
- 150–200g frozen spinach or other greens
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 tbsp olive oil
- ½ cup water or light broth
- Salt and pepper
- Optional: lemon juice, paprika, fresh herbs

Instructions

1. Brown the chicken

- Heat 1 tbsp oil in a wide pan over medium-high heat.
- Add chicken, season with salt and pepper, and brown on both sides (about 4–6 minutes total).
- Add garlic and cook another 30 seconds.
- Remove chicken and set aside.

2. Sauté the potatoes

- Add the remaining 1 tbsp oil to the pan.

- Add diced potatoes and cook uncovered for 5–7 minutes, stirring occasionally, until lightly golden.

3. Steam until tender

- Add ½ cup water (or broth).
- Cover the pan with a lid and let the potatoes steam for about 8–10 minutes, until fork-tender.
- Remove the lid and let excess liquid evaporate if needed.

4. Finish with spinach and chicken

- Return the browned chicken to the pan.
- Add the frozen spinach on top.
- Stir, then cook uncovered for another 3–5 minutes until everything is heated through and well combined.

5. Final touches (optional)

- Add a squeeze of lemon juice or a drizzle of olive oil.
- Season with additional pepper or herbs if desired.

Result: Golden potatoes, flavorful browned chicken, and greens that don't overpower the texture. Light but satisfying, and no watery mess.

Meal 17 – Tuna Pasta (Olive Oil or Tomato Base)

A fast pantry-friendly pasta dish with tuna and your choice of a light olive oil base or simple tomato sauce.

Instructions

1. Cook pasta in salted water until al dente. Reserve a splash of pasta water before draining.
2. Meanwhile, heat olive oil in a pan. Sauté onion for 3–4 minutes, then add garlic.

4. For tomato version: stir in diced tomatoes or tomato paste. Simmer for 5–7 minutes. For olive oil version: skip tomatoes and add chili flakes or herbs to the tuna.
5. Add cooked pasta to the pan. Toss everything together, adding reserved water if needed.
6. Season with salt and pepper. Serve warm, with lemon juice or grated cheese if desired.

- Optional: splash of pasta water, chili flakes, fresh parsley, lemon juice, or grated cheese

Instructions

1. Cook the Pasta Bring a pot of salted water to a boil. Cook pasta until al dente. Reserve ¼ cup of the pasta water, then drain the pasta.

3. Add Cherry Tomatoes Stir in the halved cherry tomatoes. Cook for 5–7 minutes, until they soften and start to break down. Use the back of a spoon to gently press some of them, releasing their juices.

4. Add Tomato Paste Stir in 1 tbsp tomato paste and let it cook for 1–2 minutes, mixing well with the tomatoes. (This enhances the flavor and deepens the sauce.)
 5. Add Tuna Add the drained tuna and stir to combine. Cook for another 2–3 minutes, just to heat through. If the sauce seems dry, add a splash of the reserved pasta water.
 6. Combine with Pasta Add the drained pasta to the pan and toss everything together. Adjust the consistency with more pasta water if needed.
 7. Season and Serve Season with salt and pepper to taste. Serve warm with lemon juice, chili flakes, fresh herbs, or grated cheese if desired.

alternative: picnic version

You're absolutely right — thank you for catching that.

In the original version we developed together, the rice was pre-cooked before being combined with the sautéed onion, ground meat, and other ingredients. What I accidentally included above was the Turkish variation that uses raw rice in the filling.

Here is the corrected version with cooked rice in the filling, exactly as we had discussed.

Stuffed Bell Peppers with Minced Meat, Cooked Rice, and Tomato Caps

Stovetop version, with precooked rice

Ingredients (for 4–6 peppers)

- 4–6 medium bell peppers (preferably similar in size)
- 200 g ground beef (or a mix of beef and lamb)
- 100 g uncooked rice (to be cooked separately before using)
- 1 onion, finely chopped
- 2 tomatoes (1 for the filling, 1–2 for the caps)
- 1 tbsp tomato paste (plus extra for the simmering liquid)
- 2 tbsp olive oil (plus extra for drizzling)
- 1–2 tbsp chopped parsley (optional)
- ½ tsp dried mint (optional)
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1–2 cups water or broth (for cooking)

Instructions

1. Cook the rice: Rinse the rice briefly under cold water. Cook it in lightly salted water until just done — slightly firm (not mushy), then drain and let cool slightly.
2. Prepare the peppers: Wash the peppers and slice off the tops to create lids. Remove seeds and inner ribs carefully without tearing the pepper walls. If using the pepper tops as caps, trim the stems flat from the underside or remove the woody stem and calyx if preferred.
3. Make the filling: In a skillet, heat 1 tbsp olive oil over medium heat. Sauté the chopped onion until soft and translucent. Add the ground meat and cook until browned, breaking it apart as it cooks. Stir in the tomato paste and cook for 1–2 more minutes. Add the diced tomato, salt, pepper, and optional parsley and dried mint. Finally, stir in the cooked rice and combine everything well. Let the mixture cool slightly before stuffing.
4. Stuff the peppers: Fill each pepper with the rice and meat mixture, leaving about 1 cm of space at the top. Do not overpack. Cap each pepper with either a slice of tomato or the original pepper lid.
5. Arrange in pot: Place the stuffed peppers upright in a wide, shallow pot so that they sit snugly next to each other. If there is space between them, you can wedge in extra tomato slices or a few peeled potato wedges to stabilize them.
6. Prepare cooking liquid: Mix 1 tbsp tomato paste with about 1.5 cups of water (or broth) and pour gently into the pot, avoiding pouring directly over the caps. The liquid should come about halfway up the peppers.

7. Simmer gently: Bring to a gentle boil over medium heat, then reduce the heat to low, cover the pot, and let the peppers simmer for about 30–40 minutes. Check occasionally and adjust the heat to maintain a quiet simmer. Add more water if needed.
8. Check doneness: Peppers should be tender and easily pierced with a fork. Let them rest in the pot, covered, for another 10–15 minutes off the heat.
9. Serve: Serve warm or at room temperature, optionally drizzled with olive oil or a spoonful of the tomato broth. Best enjoyed with yogurt sauce on the side.

Garlic-Dill Yogurt Sauce

Ingredients (for approx. 2–3 servings)

- 250 g plain full-fat yogurt (approx. 1 heaping cup)
- 1 small garlic clove (or less, to taste), finely grated or crushed

Instructions

2. Stir until smooth. Add the chopped dill and mix again.
3. If the yogurt is too thick, stir in a small splash of cold water to reach desired consistency.
4. Taste and adjust salt or garlic if needed. A small drizzle of olive oil and/or lemon juice can be added for extra depth.
5. Chill in the fridge for at least 30–60 minutes before serving to allow the flavors to meld.
6. Garnish with a small sprig of dill or parsley, or a tiny drizzle of olive oil before serving.

2. Stir in tomato paste, cumin, and cinnamon. Cook briefly to release aroma.
3. Add carrot, zucchini or bell pepper, chickpeas, and water or broth. Stir well.

How to Boil Eggs (Beginner Instructions)

You'll need:

- Eggs (as many as you want)
 - Water
 - A saucepan with a lid
 - A slotted spoon or regular spoon
 - Optional: bowl of cold water or ice water for cooling

Steps

1. Place Eggs in the Pot Put the eggs in a single layer in a small saucepan. Add enough cold water to cover them by about 2–3 cm.
2. Bring to a Boil Put the pot on the stove and turn the heat to high. Let it come to a full boil — bubbles breaking the surface. (You can cover the pot to speed this up.)
3. Turn Off the Heat and Cover Once boiling, turn off the heat and cover the pot with a lid. Let the eggs sit in the hot water for:
 - 6 minutes → soft-boiled (set white, creamy yolk)
 - 8–9 minutes → medium-boiled (firm white, slightly soft yolk)
 - 10–12 minutes → hard-boiled (fully cooked white and yolk)
4. Cool the Eggs When the time is up, use a spoon to transfer eggs into a bowl of cold water. Let them sit for a few minutes — this stops cooking and makes peeling easier.
5. Peel and Use Crack the shell gently and peel under running water if needed.

3. Yogurt with Granola, Honey, and Fruit (Cool & Crunchy)

Ingredients

- 3–4 heaping tablespoons plain yogurt (full-fat is best)
- ½ cup granola (store-bought or homemade)
- Banana or apple slices
- Optional: honey, cinnamon, sunflower seeds

Instructions

1. Spoon yogurt into a bowl.
2. Add granola on top.
3. Slice fruit and layer it in.
4. Add honey or seeds if you like.

Your Question – Cold Yogurt? Yes, straight from the fridge yogurt is cold and not very enjoyable in winter. Solutions:

- Take it out while making tea/toast (~5 minutes helps).
- Or: microwave 2 tbsp milk and stir it into the yogurt to gently warm it.
- Or: keep it in the fridge door, where it's slightly warmer.

4. Peanut Butter & Banana Toast (Fast & Energizing)

Ingredients

- 1–2 slices of toast
- Peanut butter

3. Slice banana on top.
4. Add cinnamon or a light drizzle of honey if desired.

Omelette Ideas

Spinach & Garlic Omelette with Cheese (1–2 servings)

A comforting and nutrient-rich breakfast omelette that brings together garlic, spinach, and cheese in a soft, savory fold.

Ingredients

- 2–3 eggs
- 1 small handful of fresh spinach (or a few cubes of frozen spinach, thawed and squeezed dry)
- 1 small garlic clove, finely minced
- 1–2 tablespoons grated cheese (e.g., Parmesan, aged Gouda, or Grana Padano)
- 1 teaspoon olive oil or butter
- Salt and black pepper to taste

Instructions

1. Prepare the spinach Heat the olive oil or butter in a nonstick pan over medium heat. Add the minced garlic and sauté gently for 30–45 seconds until fragrant but not browned. Add the spinach.
 - If using fresh spinach: sauté until just wilted (1–2 minutes).
 - If using frozen spinach: cook until heated through and any excess moisture evaporates. Season lightly with salt and pepper. Transfer the spinach mixture to a small bowl and set aside. Wipe the pan clean if needed.
 2. Beat the eggs Crack the eggs into a bowl. Add a pinch of salt and pepper and beat thoroughly until smooth and uniform in color.
 3. Cook the omelette Add a little more oil or butter to the pan if necessary. Pour the beaten eggs into the pan and tilt the pan slightly to spread them evenly. Cook undisturbed over low to medium heat until the bottom is mostly set and the top is still slightly runny.
 4. Add the filling Spoon the spinach and garlic mixture onto one half of the omelette. Sprinkle the grated cheese evenly over the spinach.
 5. Fold and finish Gently fold the other half of the omelette over the filling. Cover the pan with a lid and let it cook for another 30–60 seconds to fully set the eggs and melt the cheese. Slide the omelette onto a plate and serve immediately.

- Salt and pepper to taste

- Optional: a few sprigs of fresh parsley for garnish

Instructions

1. Sauté the vegetables Heat the olive oil in a nonstick pan over medium heat. Add the diced bell pepper (and chopped onion if using). Sauté for about 3–5 minutes until the vegetables are softened. Add the chopped tomato and a small pinch of salt. Cook for another 3–4 minutes, stirring occasionally, until the tomatoes break down and become saucy. If using chili flakes, stir them in now.
2. Prepare the eggs In a small bowl, beat the eggs with a pinch of salt and black pepper until fully combined.
3. Add the eggs to the pan Pour the eggs over the sautéed vegetables. Tilt the pan slightly to spread them evenly. Let the eggs cook undisturbed for 1–2 minutes over low to medium heat, until the edges start to set.
4. Add cheese (optional) If using white cheese, sprinkle it evenly across the top at this stage. Let the omelette continue to cook gently for another 1–2 minutes until the center is mostly set but still a little soft.
5. Serve You can either serve it as a flat open-faced omelette or fold it gently in half. Garnish with chopped parsley if desired and serve warm, ideally with bread.

3 Simple Baking

Understanding Bread, Dough, and Cake Without an Oven

3.1 I. Breads and Bread Types: Foundations of Baking

What is Bread?

Bread is one of the oldest and most fundamental prepared foods in human history. At its simplest, it is made from flour and water, transformed through leavening and heat into a soft, airy, or chewy structure. The choice of flour, leavening, and technique defines the texture, taste, and cultural style of the bread.

In its leanest form, bread contains:

- Flour (from wheat, rye, spelt, etc.)
- Water
- Salt
- A leavening agent (yeast or sourdough)

Optional enrichments (milk, eggs, sugar, butter) shift the result toward pastries or sweet breads.

How Bread is Made

Understanding how bread is made helps demystify the process. Here's a breakdown of the main steps, with notes on their purpose:

1. Mixing Ingredients Combine flour, water, salt, and yeast (or sourdough). This begins gluten formation and hydrates the starches.
2. Kneading Kneading develops gluten, a stretchy protein network that makes the dough elastic. This elasticity is crucial for holding the gas that makes bread rise.
3. First Rise (Bulk Fermentation) The yeast (or sourdough) consumes sugars in the flour and releases carbon dioxide (CO₂). The dough expands, developing both structure and flavor.

4. Shaping and Second Rise The dough is gently deflated and shaped into loaves or rolls. It rests again to allow a final rise before baking.
5. Baking or Cooking Heat causes one last burst of CO₂ release. Proteins and starches set, and the crust browns through the Maillard reaction.
6. Cooling Bread should cool completely to allow the crumb (interior) to finish setting and moisture to redistribute.

What is Gluten?

Gluten is a network of proteins (mainly gliadin and glutenin) formed when flour is mixed with water. In bread, gluten:

- Traps CO₂ gas from yeast fermentation
- Gives dough its elasticity and stretch
- Helps bread rise and form an open crumb

More kneading leads to stronger gluten and more structure. Without gluten, bread would be flat and dense.

Bread Types and Grains

Bread can be made from many grains, each producing different textures and flavors.

Wheat (Weizen): High gluten, soft, airy structure. Common in baguettes, toast bread, and rolls.

Rye (Roggen): Low gluten, denser texture. Earthy, sour flavor. Often used with sourdough for structure.

Spelt (Dinkel): An ancient wheat relative with moderate gluten. Slightly nutty, softer, and often easier to digest.

Bread Labels in Germany

Label	Meaning
Vollkornbrot	Whole grain bread (at least 90% whole flour)
Mehrkornbrot	Multigrain bread (2+ grains, not always whole)
Dinkelbrot	Spelt bread (check for “Vollkorn” for whole grain)
Roggenmischbrot	Rye-wheat mix bread (51–89% rye flour)

Leavening Agents: Yeast and Sourdough

Yeast Yeast is a single-celled fungus (Saccharomyces cerevisiae). In bread, it feeds on sugars in the flour, producing carbon dioxide that makes the dough rise. It also contributes to mild, pleasant flavors.

Sourdough Sourdough is a natural starter containing wild yeast and lactic acid bacteria. It ferments slowly and gives bread a distinctive tang and improved digestibility. Sourdough also keeps bread fresher longer due to its acidity.

Enriched Doughs vs. Simple Bread Dough

Lean dough contains only flour, water, salt, and yeast or sourdough. It produces chewy, crisp breads like ciabatta, Vollkornbrot, and baguettes.

Enriched dough includes eggs, butter, sugar, or milk. It produces soft, sweet, or tender breads like brioche, challah, and Hefezopf. These rise more slowly due to the added fats and sugars and spoil faster.

Cakes and Batters: Baking Soda and Powder

Unlike breads, cakes and pies use chemical leavening instead of biological fermentation.

Baking soda (sodium bicarbonate) reacts with acidic ingredients like yogurt, banana, or lemon juice to release CO₂ quickly. Baking powder contains both baking soda and a dry acid and activates with moisture and heat.

These leavening agents make batter rise quickly during cooking. The structure is created not by gluten, but by a delicate matrix of eggs, flour, and air.

Dough Type	Leavening	Texture	Examples
Bread Dough	Yeast/Sourdough	Chewy, elastic	Baguette, Vollkornbrot
Enriched Dough	Yeast	Soft, rich	Brioche, Zopf
Cake/Pie Batter	Baking soda/powder	Crumbly, tender	Cake, muffins

3.2 II. Recipes for Stovetop and Rice Cooker Baking

All recipes are adapted for setups without an oven and are beginner-friendly.

Chapati (Roti)

Unleavened flatbread; quick and excellent with soups, dips, or spreads.

Ingredients (makes 4):

- 1 cup whole wheat flour
- ½ cup warm water
- ½ tsp salt
- 1 tsp oil (optional)

Instructions:

1. Mix flour and salt in a bowl. Gradually add warm water while mixing with your hand or spoon until a rough dough forms. It should be soft but not sticky.
2. Knead the dough for 5–7 minutes on a clean surface until smooth and elastic.
3. Cover and let rest for 15–30 minutes to relax the gluten.
4. Divide dough into 4 equal pieces. Roll each into a ball, then flatten and roll out into thin circles (~15–18 cm in diameter).
5. Heat a dry skillet over medium-high heat. Place one chapati in the hot pan.
6. Cook 30 seconds or until light bubbles form, flip, cook another 30 seconds. Flip again and press gently with a spatula to encourage puffing.
7. Transfer to a clean cloth and optionally brush with oil or ghee. Repeat with remaining dough.

Banana Oat Pancakes

Flourless, naturally sweet, and perfect for breakfast or snack.

Ingredients (makes 4 small pancakes):

- 1 ripe banana
- 1 egg
- ½ cup rolled oats
- ½ tsp baking powder
- Pinch of cinnamon or vanilla (optional)
- Butter or oil for the pan

Instructions:

1. Mash the banana thoroughly in a bowl until smooth.
2. Add egg and whisk together until well combined.
3. Stir in oats, baking powder, and optional spices. Let sit 5 minutes to thicken slightly.
4. Heat a non-stick or lightly oiled pan over medium-low heat.

5. Spoon batter into pan to form small pancakes (~2 tablespoons each). Flatten slightly with the back of the spoon.
6. Cook for 2–3 minutes or until edges look dry and the bottom is golden. Flip carefully and cook another 2–3 minutes.
7. Serve warm with yogurt, nut butter, or fresh fruit.

Variation: Classic Flour-Based Banana Pancakes (Stovetop)

Here is a simple, flour-based banana pancake recipe, still using your stovetop setup, but now incorporating wheat flour.

Ingredients (makes 4–5 small pancakes):

- 1 ripe banana
- 1 egg
- 3–4 tablespoons all-purpose flour (or spelt flour)
- ½ tsp baking powder
- 1 pinch salt
- 1–2 tablespoons milk or yogurt (adjust consistency)
- Optional: pinch of cinnamon or vanilla
- Butter or oil for the pan

Instructions:

1. Mash the banana thoroughly in a bowl until smooth.
2. Add the egg and beat it into the banana until well combined.
3. Stir in flour, baking powder, salt, and any optional spices. The batter should be thicker than for crepes, but still pourable. If too thick, add 1–2 tbsp of milk or yogurt to loosen it.
4. Let the batter rest for 3–5 minutes so the flour hydrates.
5. Heat a pan over medium-low. Lightly grease with oil or butter.
6. Spoon batter into the pan to form small pancakes. Flatten slightly with the back of a spoon.
7. Cook 2–3 minutes per side, or until golden brown and cooked through. Adjust heat if browning too fast before the center is set.
8. Serve warm with yogurt, peanut butter, fruit, or a drizzle of honey.

How it differs from the oat version

Feature	Oat Version	Flour Version
Base starch	Rolled oats	Wheat flour
Texture	Soft, hearty, rustic	Smooth, classic pancake feel
Gluten development	None (unless using wheat bran)	Some gluten — slightly chewy
Technique insight	Shows how hydration affects oats	Shows how batter reacts to flour

Simple Yeasted Skillet Bread

A basic yeast bread cooked entirely in a covered pan.

Ingredients:

- 1 cup flour (wheat or spelt)
- ½ tsp salt
- ½ tsp dry yeast
- ½ cup warm water (adjust as needed)
- 1 tsp oil (optional)

Instructions:

1. Mix flour, salt, and yeast in a bowl. Add warm water gradually and stir until a sticky, shaggy dough forms.
2. Knead for 8–10 minutes on a lightly floured surface until dough is smooth and elastic. It should stretch without tearing.
3. Shape into a ball and place in a lightly oiled bowl. Cover with a towel and let rise for 1 hour or until doubled in size.
4. Lightly flour your hands and deflate the dough. Shape into a thick disc (~12–15 cm diameter).
5. Preheat a pan over low heat and lightly oil it.
6. Place dough in pan, cover with lid or foil. Cook on very low heat for 10–12 minutes. The bottom should be firm and golden.
7. Flip the bread carefully, then cook uncovered for 8–10 minutes more. Tap the top — it should sound hollow when done.
8. Let cool on a rack or towel for at least 10 minutes before slicing.

Rice Cooker Banana Cake

A moist, sliceable cake made without an oven.

Ingredients:

- 2 ripe bananas
- 1 egg
- 2 tbsp sugar
- 2 tbsp oil or melted butter
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup flour (all-purpose or spelt)
- 1 tsp baking powder
- Pinch of salt
- Optional: vanilla, chopped nuts, or chocolate chips

Instructions:

1. Grease the rice cooker bowl with butter or oil.
2. In a mixing bowl, mash the bananas until very smooth.
3. Add egg, sugar, oil, and vanilla (if using). Mix well with a fork or whisk.
4. In a separate bowl, mix flour, baking powder, and salt.
5. Add dry ingredients to wet mixture. Stir gently until just combined. Do not overmix.
6. Pour batter into the rice cooker bowl and smooth the top.
7. Close the lid and press “cook.” If it switches to “warm” after a few minutes, wait 2 minutes, then press “cook” again.
8. Repeat as needed until the total cooking time reaches about 40–50 minutes.
9. Check doneness with a toothpick or fork — it should come out clean or with only a few crumbs.
10. Let cake cool slightly, then remove carefully and slice.

Cocoa-Banana Rice Cooker Cake

A chocolate variation of the banana cake.

Additional ingredients:

- 2 tbsp unsweetened cocoa powder
- Optional: chocolate chips or chopped nuts

Instructions:

1. Follow the same base recipe as above.
2. Add cocoa powder with the dry ingredients in step 4.
3. Fold in chocolate chips or nuts before pouring into rice cooker.

The result is a soft, moist, gently sweet cake with a satisfying cocoa flavor — a stovetop-friendly comfort dessert.

3.3 III. Bread Storage and Shelf Life

Room Temperature (1–3 days)

- Store in a paper bag, cloth, or bread box.
- Avoid plastic bags; they trap moisture and promote mold.

Refrigeration (3–7 days)

- Not ideal, as it accelerates staling.
- Use only for very moist breads in hot weather.
- Wrap in a towel and store in a plastic bag to minimize drying.

Freezing (Best for long-term)

- Slice before freezing.
- Wrap slices in parchment or foil, then place in freezer bag.
- Defrost at room temperature or toast directly from frozen.

5 Non-thermal Food Preparation

- The principles behind non-thermal food preparation methods
- A structured learning roadmap for gradually mastering them

5.1 1. Principles Behind Non-Thermal Food Preparation

While thermal cooking uses heat to transform food, non-thermal methods rely on natural processes like fermentation, acidification, drying, and salting. These approaches are often older, slower, and more intuitive, but deeply transformative and culturally rooted.

A. Preservation-Based Methods

These aim to extend shelf life while enhancing flavor, nutrition, or digestibility.

Fermentation

Principle: Controlled microbial transformation of food.

- Microbes (bacteria, yeasts) convert sugars or starches into acids, alcohols, or gases
- Preserves by lowering pH and outcompeting harmful bacteria
- Examples: sauerkraut, kimchi, yogurt, miso, sourdough, kombucha

Curing and Salting

Principle: High salt (or sugar) content draws out moisture and inhibits microbial activity.

- Examples: gravlax, salted meats, preserved lemons

Drying and Dehydration

Principle: Removing water to stop microbial growth and enzyme activity.

- Done through air, sun, smoke, or freeze-drying
- Examples: dried fruits, jerky, herbs, pasta

Pickling (Acid Preservation)

Principle: Immersion in acid (usually vinegar or lactic acid from fermentation) to prevent spoilage.

- Examples: vinegar pickles, pickled onions, preserved beets

B. Structure-Transforming Methods

These don't primarily preserve food, but change its flavor, texture, or bioavailability without cooking.

Marination

Principle: Soaking in acidic, salty, or enzymatic liquids to break down proteins or starches and infuse flavor.

- Examples: ceviche, marinated cheese, tofu

Mechanical Processing

Principle: Physical transformation of texture or form (without cooking).

- Grinding, blending, pounding, emulsifying
- Examples: hummus, pesto, tartare, nut butters

Freezing

Principle: Inhibits microbial and enzymatic activity by drastically lowering temperature.

- Used for preservation or as a serving form
- Examples: frozen vegetables, ice cream, sashimi

6 Introduction to Pressure Cooking

6.1 What is a Pressure Cooker?

A pressure cooker is a sealed pot that uses steam pressure to cook food faster and often more efficiently than traditional methods. By sealing the steam inside, it raises both the pressure and the boiling point of water, allowing food to cook at higher temperatures without drying out or burning.

6.2 How Does It Work?

- At sea level, water boils at 100°C (212°F). This limits how hot food and liquid in an open pot can get — no matter how long it boils.
- In a pressure cooker, steam builds up in a sealed environment, increasing the pressure to 1.5–2 times atmospheric pressure.
- This increased pressure raises the boiling point of water to around 115–120°C.
- Result: Food cooks 30–70% faster, stays moist, and retains nutrients and flavor more effectively.

6.3 Why Higher Pressure = Higher Boiling Point

Boiling occurs when the vapor pressure of the liquid equals the external pressure. In a sealed pressure cooker:

- The external pressure is higher, so the water must reach a higher temperature before it can boil.
- This allows food to cook in hotter water/steam without evaporating liquid away.

This principle is the opposite of what happens at high altitudes, where lower atmospheric pressure causes water to boil at lower temperatures, leading to longer cooking times.

6.4 Why Use a Pressure Cooker?

Benefit	Explanation
Faster cooking	Cuts time significantly for legumes, meats, and grains
Tenderizes tough cuts	Great for stews and braises
No evaporation	Moisture is sealed in — perfect for soups and curries
Flavor concentration	Trapped steam keeps aromas and flavors more intense
Energy efficient	Less cooking time = lower gas or electricity usage

7 Pressure Cooker Recipes

7.1 1. Pressure Cooker Red Lentil Soup

Ingredients (4 servings)

- 1 tbsp olive oil
- 1 medium onion, diced
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 medium carrot, diced
- 1 tsp ground cumin
- 1 tsp sweet paprika
- ½ tsp ground turmeric (optional)
- 1 cup red lentils, rinsed and drained
- 1 tbsp tomato paste
- 1 medium potato, peeled and diced (optional for creaminess)
- 4 cups vegetable broth or water
- Salt and pepper, to taste
- Juice of ½ lemon (for serving)
- Optional: chili flakes, fresh herbs, or a spoon of yogurt for topping

Instructions

1. Sauté aromatics Set your pressure cooker to sauté mode (or heat it over medium heat if it's stovetop). Add olive oil. Sauté onion and carrot for about 3–4 minutes, until slightly soft. Add garlic, cumin, paprika, and turmeric. Stir for 30 seconds until fragrant.
2. Add main ingredients Add lentils, tomato paste, diced potato (if using), and broth or water. Stir well to combine. Season lightly with salt (you can adjust after cooking).
3. Seal and cook Lock the lid and bring to high pressure. Cook for 8 minutes at high pressure. After cooking, let the pressure release naturally for 5 minutes, then manually release the rest of the steam.
4. Blend (optional) The soup will be soft and creamy, but you can:
 - Use an immersion blender for a smoother texture

- Or leave it chunky — both are great.
5. Adjust and serve Taste and adjust seasoning. Stir in lemon juice just before serving. Optionally, top with a drizzle of olive oil, chili flakes, or yogurt.

7.2 2. Pressure Cooker Chickpea Curry (Chana Masala)

Ingredients (4 generous servings)

Base:

- 1 tbsp vegetable oil or ghee
- 1 medium onion, finely chopped
- 2–3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 tbsp grated ginger (or 1 tsp ground ginger)

Spices:

- 1 tsp ground cumin
- 1 tsp ground coriander
- ½ tsp turmeric
- ½ tsp paprika
- ½ tsp garam masala
- Optional: pinch of chili flakes

Tomato + Chickpeas:

- 1½ cups dried chickpeas, soaked overnight (or 1 can = ~240 g cooked)
- 1 can (400 g) chopped tomatoes or 3 fresh tomatoes, blended
- 2 tbsp tomato paste
- 3 cups water or light vegetable broth
- Salt to taste

Finishing touches:

- Juice of ½ lemon (or more to taste)
- Optional: chopped fresh cilantro, a spoonful of plain yogurt

Instructions

1. Soak the Chickpeas Rinse 1½ cups dried chickpeas and soak them overnight in plenty of water. Drain before using. (If using canned chickpeas, see alternate timing below.)
2. Sauté aromatics and spices Set pressure cooker to sauté mode (or heat over medium flame). Add oil, then sauté the chopped onion for 5–6 minutes, until golden. Add garlic and ginger. Stir for 30 seconds. Add all dry spices: cumin, coriander, turmeric, paprika, garam masala. Stir for 20–30 seconds — it should smell fragrant.
3. Add tomato and chickpeas Stir in the tomato paste and canned tomatoes. Cook for 2–3 minutes to reduce slightly. Add soaked chickpeas and 3 cups water. Season lightly with salt (about 1 tsp; adjust later). Stir well.
4. Pressure cook Lock the lid and bring to high pressure. Cook for 35–40 minutes (depending on pressure cooker model). Allow natural pressure release for at least 10 minutes, then vent manually.
5. Taste and finish Open the lid and stir. If you'd like a creamier texture, mash a few chickpeas or blend part of the curry. Adjust salt and squeeze in lemon juice. Garnish with cilantro or yogurt if desired.

Using canned chickpeas:

- Replace soaked chickpeas with 2 cans (400 g each), drained.
- Pressure cook for only 10–12 minutes, or simmer uncovered for 20–25 minutes.
- Use 1½ to 2 cups water instead of 3.

 2. Sauté aromatics In the same pot, add chopped onion and sauté for 2–3 minutes. Add garlic and tomato paste. Stir for 30 seconds. Deglaze with a splash of broth, scraping up the browned bits.
 3. Add everything else Return the beef to the pot. Add carrots, potatoes, celery (if using), herbs, spices, and broth. Season with salt (start with ~1 tsp) and pepper. Stir to combine.
 4. Pressure cook Lock the lid and bring to high pressure. Cook for 30–35 minutes. Let the pressure release naturally for at least 10 minutes, then quick release any remaining pressure.
 5. Thicken the stew (optional) For a thicker consistency:
 - Use a potato masher to gently mash a few chunks
 - Or mix 1 tbsp cornstarch with 2 tbsp water, stir into the hot stew, and simmer on sauté mode for 2–3 minutes.
